Remembrance Day observances here tomorrow

Elk Point Royal Canadian Legion Branch # 51 will once again host their Remembrance Day Service at the Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre on Tuesday, November 11.

The observances will start at 10:50 a.m. in the Centre, with the singing of O Canada and after the prayer of invocation, Last Post, tribute of silent remembrance and Reveille, participants will parade outdoors for the placing of wreaths at the cenotaph.

The gathering will then reconvene in the Seniors Recreation Centre for a program of poems by area school students, addresses by various dignitaries, and a short worship service conducted by Reverend Paulette Phillips, Reverend Sam Donaldson and Pastor Jim MacLellan.

Small Business of the Year deadline extended

With no nominations received for the 1997 Small Business of the Year award prior to the October 31 deadline, Elk Point Chamber of Commerce has extended its deadline for receiving nominations until November 14. The award will now be presented at the first Chamber of Commerce meeting in December. Nominations should be mailed to the Chamber at Box 639, Elk Point or faxed to 724-4211, and in addition to the name of the business being nominated and the reasons you feel that business is worthy of an award, must contain the signature and phone number of the person submitting the nomination.

The Chamber will once again be encouraging Elk Point residents and businesses to light up and decorate their premises for Christmas. The annual Christmas Lighting and Decorating Contest was approved, with categories and prizes remaining the same as in previous years. Judging will take place just prior to Christmas. Businesses will be judged during the daytime on both interior and exterior decoration. Homes, apartment balconies and institutions will be judged in the evening.

The newly appointed Town representative to Chamber meetings, Town Manager Myron Goyan, said he feels the decorating contest is a good idea, but first the town needs tidying up, hopefully before snow starts to fall. "We need an accelerated interest in cleaning up the garbage on the streets and sidewalks, and in the alleys. I want to get a new bylaw in place that will encourage this." He knows that Town-owned property isn't always perfectly maintained either, but says "we'll clean up our backyard, and help others to do the same."

Goyan also said that snow removal will be improved this winter, and that garbage pickup has now been moved to the front curb in some areas where drifting snow traditionally clogs alleys.

The Chamber will send two delegates to an upcoming Northern Alberta Development Council conference on developing tourism in northern Alberta. Chamber president Vicki Brooker and tourist information centre operator Sherry Pelech will be taking a display of Elk Point's tourist attractions with them to the conference, November 18 to 20 in Edmonton.

Chamber members were presented with an update on the December 5 Christmas Extravaganza. The next Extravaganza planning meeting is Wednesday, November 12 at 8:00 a.m.

Community Health Council explores injury control

The Region 4 Community Health Council gained insight into the Lakeland Regional Health Authority's injury control program at their public meeting last Thursday in Elk Point, when Janine Brisebois, coordinator of the program, explained this new health initiative.

Brisebois, who has a background in physiological psychology and neurology, and many years of experience in rehabilitation, told the CHC that the focus of injury control is very broad, and involves legislation, education and prevention. As an example, she outlined the history of seat belts, which were installed in vehicles many years before their widespread use came about due to these three factors.

The cost of injuries is high, both emotionally and financially, Brisebois said, showing graphs of injury trends in one county which is part of the LRHA region for one year. Motor vehicle collisions resulted in injuries for more people over 65 than any age group than youths, and Brisebois feels that medication-caused impairment may be a cause. Long work hours are seen as a factor in collisions in adults under 65.

Falls are another major cause of injuries for the older population, and the graph shows that the incidence of falls escalates with age. Ice, snow and in-home factors such as scatter rugs are some of the causes.

The third major group of injuries are those which are self-inflicted, with these affecting primarily youth through middle age. Other causes of injury noted were burns, assaults, industrial and farm, and sports.

A survey of poisoning incidents show that the highest number were from acetaminophen, with many of these victims under four years of age, gasoline, bleach and other household chemicals, codeine and alcohol. The highest incidence of alcohol poisoning was in the 15 to 18 age group.

Injury severity figures were obtained from one of the trauma centres which serves the LRHA region, and show that Area 4, which includes Elk Point, Cold Lake, Bonnyville and Glendon, accounted for 35.2% of the total patients from the region, while other areas ranged from 12.7% to 19.7%. "Individuals in this region work hard and play hard," Brisebois said, citing fatigue and alcohol as contributing factors to the number of injuries. "We don't use the 'A' word [for accident] because these aren't accidents. They are preventable. Only acts of God, such as being struck by lightning, are accidents."

The cost of treating injuries, according to US statistics, exceeds the cost of treating heart disease and cancer combined, and is almost as much as treating AIDS.

What can be done to reduce these injuries? Brisebois says that the LRHA is "very advanced" to have an injury control program in place. She plans to work closely with the CHCs to focus on reduction, and will be placing advertisements looking for volunteers to participate in the injury control program and to help develop initiatives for the future. "If we mobilize, utilize and energize, we can have a safe Lakeland," she concluded.

The CHC's regular meeting included reports from the community representatives. A recently established health committee at Kehewin is attempting to plan new health initiatives. Hospital housekeeping standards, in these days of cutbacks, was discussed. Cold Lake's Health Action Team is now setting goals, and is currently concerned with the recruitment of a surgeon for that community.

Another concern was the spending of the LRHA Board, which LRHA representative Diana Anderson said resulted in part from the "very expensive" procedure of changing the LRHA boundaries, and from the fire at the Lamont health centre. "We have started a quality improvement program to evaluate the effectiveness of committees and governance and are doing the best we can with the dollars we have." The LRHA board has set a goal of reducing their costs, she added.

Anderson's report to the CHC recognized that physician recruitment is "a real problem in the rural areas, especially when the health care dollars follow the patient," which makes physician recruitment even more important. "There are dollars out there" to help with recruitment, she noted, "which is one step in the right direction." Anderson enthused over a pilot project in the Two Hills area involving 'Telehealth,' where patients are hooked up to a computer enabling a specialist in Edmonton to hear their lung and cardiac sounds as well as to determine other factors relating to the appropriate care. "As a region, we want to expand this into our area. We're working really hard to get approval. I see this as an answer to a lot of the problems with physician recruitment."

Community Health Council coordinator Rosemary Seaman said that CHC representatives will be meeting with the LRHA Board in the new year to outline their roles and responsibilities. "The Board feels it's time to talk once again... and find out in what areas the CHC wants to be active." She said the CHCs are valuable because they "bring community views to the table."

Diana Anderson added that the Board "wants to work with you to improve your role, and wants your role to be productive. We want you to know that your role is very important to us."

Levina Ewasiuk was appointed to represent the CHC on the Elk Point Interagency Committee on Health.

The CHC's next meeting will be in Glendon on December 4, and will be open to the public after 8:00 p.m.

From the FCSS desk...

Lest we forget

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Tomorrow, Tuesday, November 11, is Remembrance Day. Our children will be having a day off of school and some businesses will be closed.

I hope we will all take time to remember why and what we are remembering on "Remembrance Day." Wars have been fought, men and women have given their lives as they have fought in these wars. Their reasons for fighting — to protect our freedom and rights. Unfortunately, and fortunately, our young people (those who have been born and raised in Canada) have not experienced the effects of war.

But, war degrades and destroys. It brings out the worst in people. Survival of the innocent becomes a daily challenge.

Let us not forget how horrible war was and can be. Let us not forget the men and women who went to war.

When I think of war, I am reminded of a quote by Thomas S. Monson. He said: "Follow the Leader" is more than a game when we remember that the power to lead is the power to mislead, and the power to mislead is the power to destroy."

To me, war doesn't need to be. "Someone" or "some people" have mislead. As William

George Jordan once said: "The second most destructive weapon is the gun. The first? The human tongue."

Oh, if we could do away with unresolved contentions, anger, misunderstandings, frustrations, and disagreements, the world would be a better place for all of us to live in. Fear would be replaced by feelings of peace.

However, I realize life isn't that simple. But still, if each one of us would work at resolving differences, it would make a difference. As our children watch us resolve our differences, then they will have learned some skills that they can put into practice. After all, our children are our future politicians and leaders. Let us hope they are prepared to take the power given them to lead and not to mislead. Lest they forget what we taught them.

There is another quote from Vital Speeches of the Day, which makes the following statement: "Freedom cannot be preserved in constitutions if it has vanished from the hearts of its citizens."

Let us talk about Remembrance Day to our children so that they will understand and know the value of freedom. It need not vanish from their hearts because it was never placed there.

After all, "Lest we forget."

Santas Anonymous campaign underway

The Elk Point and District Lioness Club has started their Santas Anonymous Campaign for 1996. Donations can be made and forwarded to Elk Point and District Lioness Club, Box 432, Elk Point, Alberta, TOA 1A0.

Letters have been sent to many clubs, organizations, businesses and oilfield related companies and services. If you or anyone you know may be in need of assistance by this program, contact 724-4106. All names will be kept confidential. We have a deadline date of December 18, 1996.

Gifts that anyone donates must be new and unwrapped when placed in the collection boxes at various businesses in town. There will also be a food collection box at the Co-op. Keep them unwrapped so our volunteers can determine whether they are appropriate for a boy or girl and what age of child that gift is appropriate for. If you have any questions or concerns, please call 724-4337.

Day Care Funding Changes

The Alberta Government is changing the way it funds day cares in the province so that more funding is available for families who most need it.

Right now, day cares receive government funding in two ways: through an Operating Allowance (which is paid to day cares for every child registered, regardless of family income) and through the Child Care Subsidy program (which fully or partially subsidizes the day care fees of low income families).

Child Care Subsidy:

- The current maximum monthly subsidy is: $300 for children and $370 for infants
- April 1998: monthly subsidies will rise by an average of $80
- April 1999: monthly subsidies will rise again, by an average of $20
- Total average increase over two years: $100 dollars per child
- Eligibility criteria will broaden so more families can qualify

Operating Allowance:

- The current monthly average rate is: $69 per child
- April 1998: the monthly average rate will be $25 per child
- April 1999: the Allowance will be eliminated

Day Care Regulations: the regulations will be streamlined so that day cares can more easily focus on providing quality child care.

National Seniors' Safety Week, November 9 to 15

Knowledge is critical to seniors' safety

Many patients know more about the cereal they eat than about the medication they take, according to Emile Therien, president of the Canada Safety Council. "This creates a significant safety concern," he says.

Canadians have easy access to detailed information on everyday products, including their morning cereal. But Therien says they should take special steps to make sure they understand the prescription medicines they take — products that directly affect their health and well-being.

"Medications are instrumental in the lives of many seniors, and new medicines available today have made it possible for Canadians to enjoy longer and better lives," says Therien. However, a study conducted at the University of Toronto shows that 50 per cent of patients do not take their medicine as prescribed. Some don't fill their prescription, some fill it but don't take it, and others don't take it as directed.

Slow response, not seeing the sign (car, pedestrian, etc.) and interaction with other drivers — all of which can be affected by medication — are the main factors in collisions involving other drivers. To be a safe driver, he says, you need to use medication correctly and know its possible effects.

That applies to over-the-counter medications and herbal remedies as well as prescription medications. Don't be afraid to ask questions. Follow the instructions. Know the effects and always be sure you are completely free of harmful effects before driving. Never mix medications, share them with another person, or take them in combination with alcohol. With some medication, you may not be able to drive at all.

For National Seniors' Safety Week, November 9 to 15, the Canada Safety Council, in partnership with the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association of Canada, has a very simple message for older Canadians. In the interest of safety, make a deliberate personal commitment to proper medication use.

How can you start? The Canada Safety Council recommends Knowledge is the Best Medicine, a health education program of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association of Canada in partnership with many organizations representing government, industry, pharmacies, the medical community and consumers.

Knowledge workshops, available in many communities across Canada, are designed to teach health care consumers, in particular seniors, about the proper use of their medications. This innovative program reaches consumers directly with the practical information and advice they need on the safe and effective use of their medications, and opens the lines of communication between seniors and their health care professionals. Participants receive a medication record and are encouraged to keep track of their own medication use.

The Canada Safety Council strongly endorses the Knowledge is the Best Medicine program because the proper use of medication is a critical factor for safety.

Medication effects for the older driver

Older drivers need to know how prescription medicines and over-the-counter drugs can affect their driving ability. Here are some examples:

Medical condition	Type of medication	Potential effects on driving
Arthritis and rheumatism	Analgesics (pain relievers)	Drowsiness, inability to concentrate, ringing in ears
Common cold	Antihistamines, antitussive (cough suppressants)	Drowsiness, blurred vision, dizziness
Fatigue	Stimulants	Overexcitability, false sense of alertness, dizziness
Heart Arrhythmia	Antiarrhythmics	Blurred vision, dizziness
Hypertension	Antihypertensives (blood pressure drugs)	Drowsiness, blurred vision, dizziness

Test your medication knowledge

1. Patients take about half of all drugs incorrectly. ☐ True ☐ False
2. Older persons are more prone to adverse reactions because aging changes the way the body absorbs and reacts to medications. ☐ True ☐ False
3. You need to tell the doctor only of prescription drugs you are already taking and not over-the-counter drugs, vitamins or herbal remedies. ☐ True ☐ False

4. Only a few medications cannot be taken with alcohol. ☐ True ☐ False
 5. There is little danger of becoming addicted to over-the-counter drugs. ☐ True ☐ False
 6. If you miss taking one dose of your medication, you should take a double dose next time. ☐ True ☐ False
 7. Your pharmacist and physician can alert you to possible adverse reactions that may result from combining medications. ☐ True ☐ False

F. G. Miller Student Journalists

October 31 was a very busy day at F. G. Miller. We took the last two periods of the day to participate in a number of fun activities. Students were divided into teams and competed in such events as Freaky Foods, Screaming Bats, Creaking Chairs, Hanging Heads, Mummy Rap and Howling Cats. Many students and staff 'dressed up' for the occasion. It was a tough choice, but Jaylene Pankiw as the clown won for the best costume. Also that day, Ms Smereka and the Grade 7B class drew for the October Above the Limit winners. Congratulations to Marilyn Jendruck who received the most entries for October with a count of 19! The winners of the prizes were: Michelle Hutton, Brian Goo, Mark Ference, Kyla Kulczycki, Maureen Myshaniuk, Carrie Rogers, Helen Wilcox, Coy Robbie, Amy Gildersleeve, James Purdy, Marilyn Jendruck, Stacey Robbie, Tyler Warawa, Eva Gusnowski, Jennifer Flanders, Matt Lee, Billy Turner and Brandon McMillan. In October, 1198 entries were received.

On November 3, the November newsletter was sent home with all Jr. High students and the youngest or only student in Senior High. If you did not receive a copy of the newsletter, please phone the school and we would be glad to get one home to you. Please note some of the following corrections: 1. On the Important Dates to Remember, November 12 should be Parent Council Meeting and November 19 should be Parent-Teacher Evening (interviews). 2. In the Volleyball standings, the date should read "as of October 29/97."

The Senior High Volleyball teams were in Myrnam on November 1. Congratulations to both teams. Our guys came out on top in the boys' draw and the girls made it to the semi-finals and placed third.

Their only home games of league play were held on November 5 when they hosted Frog Lake and Myrnam. They are looking forward to competing in their last league games on Wednesday, November 12 in Frog Lake. The Junior High teams were hosts on November 6 and they will play their last league games in Myrnam on November 13. As volleyball starts to wrap up, signs of basketball are starting to show. In fact, the basketball teams have started fundraising by selling fruit.

Students of the week for November 3 to 7 were Leanne Wilson and Romy Rohner. Way to go, girls!

After two very busy months, we are all looking forward to the "long" weekend. When we get back, less than half the semester remains for our high school students so they will quickly get back into the swing of things.

Teen alcohol use concerns Interagency Committee

The use of alcohol by local teenagers, especially as concerns the annual grad party, was discussed at length by the Elk Point Interagency Committee at their November 4 meeting, with F. G. Miller High School principal Jim Hawkins as a special guest.

Hawkins said that when he first came to FGM, the school took part in the RCMP Safe Grad program, but since then, parents on the graduation committees "tried different things" including the use of buses, to make grad night safer.

The traditional rite of passage is "a really difficult situation," Hawkins acknowledged.

RCMP Sgt. Peter Sherstan asked, "do we want to crack down to the point where nothing happens," or undertake enforcement such as last year, when quantities of alcohol were seized and dumped.

Sherstan said that to have "everything legal and above board," would require a designated place to consume liquor, similar to the beer garden at a rodeo, with identification required to enter the area, and the party per se outside that area. He mentioned the liability implications for a landowner knowing about illegal activity on their property, and for the committee who organize the event.

Sherstan will attend the FGM Parent Council meeting on November 12, and will also attend a meeting of the Grade 12 parents to focus on the matter and inform them about the legal responsibilities.

Interagency chair Deanna Easthope said the parents "need to see the picture. These things become the norm, with underage drinking, and by Grade 12, it has to be a really BIG party. They're breaking laws and thinking it's OK."

Sherstan said he had been to "too many accidents where you have to scrape some kid up and then go tell the parents. I don't want to have to do that."

What's news at the library?

Don't look now, but Christmas is coming!

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The hottest topic of conversation this past week has been the weather. If you recall last year at this time we were right in the middle of two weeks of snow. What a difference a year makes.

The lack of snow makes it kind of hard to get into the Christmas spirit but starting November 21, Storytime will be working on Christmas decorations for the library (and to take home). The decorating projects will culminate in our annual Christmas party on December 12 so mark your calendar.

Here are a few new titles in adult fiction:

Chris Cuthbert and Scott

Russell explore hometown hockey rinks from Newfoundland to British Columbia to show how these buildings, as institutions, have profound effects on our communities in The Rink: Stories from Hockey's Hometowns.

Stephen R. Covey returns, this time with lessons in creating and sustaining a strong family culture in The 7 Habits of Highly Effective Families.

When She Was Bad: Violent Women and the Myth of Innocence by Patricia Pearson looks at a number of real-life examples to show that women can be aggressive and violent with horrific results.

Max Haines offers up a feast of 72 true crime tales in Murders Strange but True, proving that truth is stranger than fiction.

Alan Maitland shares some of his favorite stories in Fireside Al's Treasury of Classic Stories.

And for those of you who would like to listen to your books:

In the 1940s he became the first black player to play major league baseball. In Jackie Robinson: A Biography by Arnold Rampersand you can learn about this athlete whose quiet dignity in the face of hatred and harassment made him one of the truly great heroes of our century. Read by LeVar Burton.

As a follow-up to her best seller, Dr. Laura Schlessinger now addresses the things men do to make their lives miserable in Ten Stupid Things Men Do to Mess Up Their Lives.

And in adult fiction:

A terrorist attack on a military convoy leaves scores of soldiers dead and truckloads of weapons in the hands of an ultra-right-wing militia. When the president demands swift action, lawyer Martin Vail, now Illinois attorney general, is called in and he discovers that his old adversary, Aaron Stamper, returns seemingly from the dead to wreak vengeance in Reign in Hell, by William Diehl.

Violin by Anne Rice tells the story of Triana, who once dreamed of becoming a great musician, and Stefan, tormented ghost of a Russian aristocrat, who begins to prey upon her.
